WEATHER DISCUSSION & SUMMARY

Good Morning.... High pressure along the West Coast will keep the weather dry through tonight in most areas. A weather system will drop through the area tomorrow morning bringing some light rain or showers to most areas for a while. Conditions will improve in the afternoon and evening before the next weather system arrives. Indications are the weather will remain unsettled this weekend and much of next week as the storm track sets up over the Pacific Northwest.... Erik 5am temperatures in Northwest Oregon and Southwest Washington are in the lower to mid 40's.
